Sustainability

Don't Burn Your Waste

Burning of household garbage is a major source of uncontrolled pollution, harmful to your health and our environment. Burning wastes releases mold spores, soot, and other contaminants that can cause serious health problems and aggravate allergies.

Dioxins and furans released into the air settle on fields, forests, lakes and streams. These toxic pollutants become incorporated into the food chain, and they are passed on to us when we consume meat, fish and dairy products. Stay tuned to IPTEC Facebook page for more tips.
