

Metro Express, McDonald's and IPT enhance Dekwaneh

April 6 marked the official opening of the second "zone" in Dekwaneh under the patronage of Me Antoine Chakhtoura Mayor of Dekwaneh, combining an IPT station offering premium fuel solutions, together with a Metro Express state-of-the-art convenience store and McDonald's the leading name in quick service restaurants.

Me. Antoine Chakhtoura, highlighted the importance of such zones in Lebanon and the services they provide to the customers when it comes to their daily requirements.

Rashwan Miknas, general manager and partner of McDonald's Lebanon; Oliver Geha, vice president of Metro Superstore s.a.r.l; Michel Issa, IPT group chairman; Tony Issa, IPT board of directors member; and Antoine Chakhtoura alongside Ronald McDonald, chief happiness officer, joined their hands together to cut, their alliance's ribbon followed by the cake cutting ceremony announcing Dekwaneh's zone officially open. Hosts delightfully ushered guests around the facility where they had the opportunity to exploit the advantages of this new zone including the laser car wash, the convenient shopping at Metro Express and the quick service food convenience of McDonald's respectively.

This new zone includes an IPT gas station, a McDonald's restaurant with dine-in, drive-thru, delivery service, and a Metro Express convenience store featuring all sorts of beverages, snacks, car gadgets as well as a Mountain Mudd café and kiosk offering a diverse selection of iced and hot coffee drinks and Byblos ATM machine. The Dekwaneh zone is the second of its kind in Lebanon after the first gathering the same three parties in Amchit Highway offering these premium services to the community of Jbeil.
